I think there is two reasons of this difference.

The ~~the~~ first is internet. People today don't interested in discovering new places and cultures just because they heard about it from friends or read in internet.

The second is a lazy. Most people today fly anywhere just to take a rest. They buy all inclusive tours and just watch TV in hotel room during all holiday.

Unlike tourists in the 1960-1970. They came to a totally new place and they want to discover it, see some local signs, meet new people, go on some exhibitions. That people want to be surrounded by new culture.

As I think all tourists now must be curious like tourists in the 1960s and '70's. 'Cause it is really interesting to learn new. New places, new culture, new people, all at this things make your trip. When you see something that really inspired you time goes slower and only for ~~the~~ this moments we love life. So if you want to be a boring person, living a really not interesting life, be like tourists today. But i prefer to be a '1960s and '70s' tourists.
