Many tourists today fly straight to their holiday resort and almost never leave it. Unlike tourists in the 1960s and '70s, they return home with no experience of the local culture. It's a big problem in our days. It kills a spirit of adventure in different country and make holidays boring.

In my opinion it happens because since 60s and 70s tourism became to the big business. ~~When something became a big business~~ Tourism - one of the most profit business in the world and when something became a big business - it became standart. Standart planes, standart hotels with standart rooms and standart food, standart excursions and (The worst one) standart experience.

In the 1960s and 70s tourism was an adventure to interesting places with experience of local culture. Like in movies about Indiana Jones or "Uncharted" game series. But now it's just a beach, sea, hotel, many other tourists and no local people.

When Russian tourists arrive to the Turkey Thilant they don't want to see Thilant. They want to see Russia but in different decorations. It's the biggest problem of modern tourism. People don't want to see other cultures. They just want to relax after worktime.

In conclusion I want to say that tourism is the most interesting way to know something new about other countries and cultures and it's very stupid to waste your holiday in standart hotel.
