where they were resting. But now people prefer to go to the place where they will sleep and they do not go far from their small habitat.

I think the cause of this problem is the growth of the working time. People work so much and when the time of vacation comes in, they pick a calm rest, because they are tired. People do not want to walk too much, they only want to be passive.

Also the reason of this problem may be linked with the fear of local people. When you arrive in an unknown country for you, you do not know their culture, their traditions. You can think that they may be thieves, murderers or somebodies else. So it is safe not to go to some unknown places, not to speak with local people and not to connect with this country.

Early people were more energetic, more brave, more self-confident, they did not afraid of any dangers they can go anywhere; they thought that they should taste all things in the world. And I think that they were happy.

But also I think that people are happy like you too. If they pick that kind of rest, they like it.

To sum up I may say that every kind of rest is perfect if you like it.

For example, my brother's purse was stolen by the thief in Thailand, so now my brother does not go to the centre of the city, although there are many sightseeings where he rests.
