holiday, especially if it is some kind of a resort, where all you need to do is³ to relax and have fun. People pay big summes of money to have this experience. But for some reason, it's not so popular to go abroad for adventures or cultural experience, like it was in the middle of the 21st⁶ century. And the reason why - is the topic I would like to talk today.

In my opinion, the main reason why more "passive" style of holiday is prefered among nowadays' tourist is in our lifestyle. If we would compare our daily life ^{with} to the life of an average citizen in the 1960s, we will see, how different they are. If in the '60ths it was popular to take part in sport activities, today it's not so common anymore. This is because we live in the era of technologies, and the most of people would choose watching TV programmes or playing computer games on the day-offs, rather than going for a picnic⁷ or skiing.

We became lazier because there are so many things we don't have to do by ourselves. And even though there is no more not much work we have to do, ^{but} people didn't become less tired. ~~for some reason~~. That's why many of us are not interested in adventures and experiences. All we need - is to take a rest, and a resort ~~is~~ suits this situation so well. Unlike tourists in the 1960s, who were open to exploring ^{the} world, we would better lay on the beach.

To conclude, I would like to say, that we should become as curious and adventurous as our grannies ^{were} in their youth. Because adventures are the best medicine from being tired.
