In this quotation U.S. historian Will Durant highlighted the problem of need to educate for entire life. Education involves us in psychological learning of ourselves. In my opinion education is the best way to learn myself better. Some people can say that clever people know that they know nothing. This problem has been discussing since time of the Ancient Greece.

I agree with quotation and I have a few reasons for it. First of all there is technological and scientific progress. Progress goes very fast nowadays so we must study for our entire life just not to lose any ~~new~~ innovations.

Secondly, there is our knowledge. I mean, entire world's knowledge. There ~~is~~ ^{are} so many years of existing such things as biology, chemistry, physics etc. We have so much theorems, axioms, rules, terms and nobody can learn that ^{them} all. Especially mathematics, physics and chemistry. Nowadays we even have specialisations in schools because of it.

Will Durant was right in this quotation. By keeping some knowledge in our minds we discover how much we haven't ^{we} explore ^{what} yet. We must remember it because it is important for all of us.
