It's very important to practise a sport regularly and exercising when you in your teens. Let's talk about good effects that healthy lifestyle can bring you.

First of all, In young age our body keep growing. Our organism need help to grow up with no difficulties. For example, your bones wouldn't be strong enough if you were will be sitting all the time. For faster and better growing you need to keep your body in a good form. When you don't overweight, It's easy to do all kinds of things that you do everyday. Exercising will help yourself to be stronger and be in a good and positive mood.

Well, If It's not enough to make you exercising, I have one more reason. With sport activities you can find new friend and people who likes what you like. You would be happier and healthier to do something with your social life. Maybe you have someone with you who can share his interests and show you good healthy lifestyle is.

By the way, If you would be interested in some sports and you will try your best, It may have some good results as a sport career or some medals in championships.

Health is the most important thing in our lives. Let's help our body to be healthy and It will be helping us.
