Should students have a long summer holiday or should terms be longer?

As for me, the answer is obvious: summer holiday should be as long as possible, because students are being in great stress for nine months of studying. Of course, they have some short holidays during the study period, but I think ~~that~~^{it} is not enough for relaxing. You can't be productive ~~and~~ ~~productive~~ when you're exhausted. style

On the other side, ^{too} long holidays are not good for studying. After being back at school in september, you'll find out that you have forgotten a lot of information, that's why short holidays are better for learning.

Holiday is a great opportunity for your hobby or self-education. You can do some sports, visit ^{the} theatre or hang out with your friends! There are so many ways for spending your holidays with friends or with ^{lex} family, for example, doing a picnic, going to the cinema, or visiting a museum. There are also so many ways to spend ~~good~~ it alone, you can play a videogame, read a book or watch some films.

In conclusion, I think that students should have a long summer holiday, because it is really important for your mind and your body to rest enough.
